OTHER COMMENTS**

Decree: Harding Decree (1961)
Water User's Claim 51-6211 was the subject of a lawsuit known as Murdock vs. City of Springville, et al., Utah County Civil No. 22850. The decree on the case dated December 15, 1961 is commonly referred to as the Harding Decree.
Paragraph 2 of the Harding Decree decreed to the claimat title to a `first class water right` now represented as Water User's Claim 51-6211. Paragraph 4 of the Haqrding Decree lists as the source of supply from Water User`s Claim 51-6211, `Hobble Creek and Spring Creek watersheds as augmented by the 30.5 shares of Strawberry Reservoir water`.Paragraph 9 of the Harding Decree designates the Highline Canal as the specific source of supply. For this reason, the source is listed as Hobble Creek and the point of diversion as the Highline Canal.

Civil No. 22850 also confirmed an exchange of water between the claimant`s predecessor in interest and Springville City, which obligated Springville City to satisfy the claimant`s water right by delivering water from Hobble Creek through the Highline Canal. The water from Hobble Creek used to satisfy Water User`s Claim 51-6211 is limited to 19.44% interest of the 6.5 cfs flow in the Highline Canal which is intermittently diverted by any, each, or all of the following Water User`s Claims: 6025, 6211 6214 thru 6219.
